

Brain arm: a validated decoder recovers a planted signal but reads no real valence, on two films

Two-film controlled null: occipital valence decoding is not estimable above chance on a dialogue-dense (Payload) or a dialogue-light (Tears of Steel) film. The elevated ToS null shows a zero-test would false-positive. Descriptive; no p-values.